

Department of Biochemistry
Generic Elective
Human Physiology

Objectives:

- To understand the normal functioning of all the organ systems of the body and their interactions.
- To know the contribution of each organ system to the maintenance of homeostasis.
- To know the physiological principles underlying pathogenesis and treatment of disease.

Outcomes:

- Students gain an understanding of various body organs and their functions in health and diseased conditions.